TEACHING CHILDREN: Rocky Mountain Conference is offering a seminar for Children's Ministries Leaders, Adventure Club Staff, Sabbath School Teachers, and even Parents! Learn ideas and educational theories that help teach children in ways that are fun, dynamic and spiritual. Deadline for registering is 3/4/2019.

MEAL FOR COMMUNITY MEMBERS IN NEED: On Sabbath afternoon, March 30th, at 2:00 p.m. Hope @ Miracle House, Change 4 Change and the Fort Lupton Food and Clothing Bank will be handing out brown bag meals to community members in need. The exact location will be firmed up in the next week or so. If you would like to help, talk to Sandy Akins or Karen Fernandez. We will also be providing small bags of hygiene products put together by the Food & Clothing Bank. If you have travel-size hygiene items (shampoo, conditioner, toothpaste, toothbrushes) you can donate, bring them to the church and put them in the box on the foyer table. Sandy and Karen will be taking them to the Food & Clothing Bank on March 15th.

WANDA BALMER has been transferred to a rehabilitation facility and will probably be released on 2/28. Please feel free to visit her. She has various therapies throughout the day but is usually finished by 4:00 p.m. and she loves having visitors. The facility is east of I-25 on the south side of Highway 34. The address is 4401 Union St Room 605, Johnstown CO 80534. Shower her with cards.

Pastor's Notes

Psalms 29 is a worship song that is packed with creation language. Twice reference is made to "the waters," the first time teasingly evoking the creation of the world (Psalm 29:3; cf. Genesis 1:2) and the second time explicitly mentioning the flood (Psalm 29:10). God's voice is depicted as producing various effects on creation: it can bring about mighty acts of destruction or it can gently bring into the world new-and-delicate life (Psalm 29:5-9). And throughout this psalm, the worship of God in the "temple" (heavenly or earthly?) is linked with God's rulership over the created order (the relationship between Psalm 29:1-2 and Psalm 29:3-4; likewise, the relationship between Psalm 29:9 and Psalm 29:10). And it is in this context that we encounter the words of Psalm 29:2, "Give unto the Lord the glory due to His name; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" (NKJV). The entirety of Psalm 29 answers the question of why we should give God the glory due to his name. The answer is because of who God is: he is the mighty and powerful Creator, the one who made everything in the beginning and continues to create new life and sustain it. Consequently, God is worthy of receiving glory, not because he is the strongest and so can throw the biggest temper-tantrum, but because it is right and good to give glory to he who is Ultimately Glorious. But what does it mean to worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness? The NKJV's marginal note - that the Hebrew actually is "the majesty of holiness" - is just as striking as the phrase "the beauty of holiness," but it gets us nowhere closer to the answer to our question. The answer to our "how" question, I believe, is found in the second half of verse 4: "the voice of the Lord is full of majesty." If the Lord's voice is full of majesty, and if the Lord's voice results in his manifold care of creation, then I think the way Psalm 29:2 is calling us to worship God is by paying attention to the fact that God is our Creator and Sustainer. According to Psalm 29, God shows us who he is by his care for his creation. And it is when God shows us who he is that we find him truly beautiful and majestic, which also means he is truly holy. Today we are invited by Psalm 29:2 to worship the Lord in the beauty and majesty of his holiness - to recognize that God beautifully and majestically creates and shapes and forms all of us, and has been doing so from our beginning. Let us, therefore, praise and worship the Lord for showing his holiness to us in this way.
